

VReverie GEN 1 Audition FAQ

Is the audition open globally?

Yes, the auditions are open to anyone who meets our requirements, regardless of your country of residence.

Am I able to choose the character I am applying for?

The audition is a general audition, you will be considered for all 3 characters based on compatibility. Should you pass the initial audition screening, you will be given a chance to indicate your preference, during/after the interview.

Do I need to be a streamer to audition?

While having previous experience is a plus, it is not a prerequisite for the audition.

Can I join VReverie using my own VTuber model?

Successful applicants will be provided with an original Live2D model.

When will I be notified of the audition outcome?

We will notify you on the outcome of the audition within 1-2 weeks after receiving your submission, and follow up with further instructions should you pass the initial audition screening.

Will I be provided any equipment?

We will provide equipment as necessary to ensure a smooth streaming experience on a case by case basis.

Are you accepting male applicants?

We are currently focused on recruiting female talents for GEN 1. However, you are still welcome to apply if you'd like to be considered for future opportunities.

My application was unsuccessful. Am I allowed to submit another application within the audition period?

If you feel that your previous application did not fully represent your capabilities, you are allowed to do a re-submission.

I have another question that is not listed in the FAQ.

Feel free to contact us via email at official@v-reverie.com

How will my information be used?

You can refer to our privacy policy here